- I'm looking for a solution to bypass activation of windows 7 enterprise infinium v 5 2015 pre activated team os. I can find all the documents that will tell me how to apply a patch and what patch to apply etc but there doesn't seem to be a solution to bypass activation and not have it activate. Has anyone else got round this. A: I found a blog where they were able to activate it so I assume you must have a fresh installation as they were able to activate it. They didn't say how they did it. You can try the Windows Security Center which will tell you what you need to do. I believe you are correct, it is activated. I don't know if this will work for you because you have a fresh installation. If you do end up activating it and it doesn't work, you can unactivate it again and re-install. Duck Dynasty A new poll found that conservative Christians are afraid of global warming and that was the motivation for them to oppose policies to fight climate change. Now, what is a conservative Christian, anyway? "While the idea of using big, powerful, multi-national corporations like Exxon as mouthpieces for Christian views is certainly suspect, the results are actually more interesting. Their views show that the denial of mainstream scientific data is a bipartisan issue. The right and left both deny man's role in changing the climate, but the right does so from a rightwing standpoint and the leftwing from an environmentalist perspective." "But the view that there's no evidence for man-made climate change, and therefore all the environmentalist policies, are actually being driven by the fact that most of the funding for the environmentalist lobby has come from the very same corporations that they're accusing of destroying the planet!" "What the survey results indicate is that the two-party system of liberal environmentalism and conservative climate denial is a dangerous, self-perpetuating political dynamic." "The US is clearly more or less lost in its political and religious views on climate change," said Ann Hepler, author of We Say No! How Christians Made, Are Making, 82157476af
